COURSE READINGS: ECONOMICS 125 (URBAN ECONOMICS)

The text for the course is:

Supplementary readings are drawn from other books and journals. This reading list includes 19 sections, about 12 of which will be covered in any given term. The readings for the other 7 sections are provided for students interested in the topics not covered in the term during which they take the class. About one third of the readings in each section will be required.

SECTION 1: WHY DO CITIES EXIST?
Urban Economics: Chapters 1 and 2.

SECTION 2: WHERE DO CITIES DEVELOP?
Urban Economics: Chapter 3.

SECTION 3: HISTORY OF URBANIZATION
Urban Economics: Chapter 4.

SECTION 4: HOW MANY CITIES?
Urban Economics: Chapter 5.

SECTION 5: URBAN GROWTH
Urban Economics: Chapter 6.

SECTION 6: INTRODUCTION TO LAND RENT
Urban Economics: Chapter 7.

SECTION 7: LAND USE AND LAND RENT IN MONOCEUTRIC CITY
Urban Economics: Chapter 8.

SECTION 8: GENERAL EQUILIBRIUM LAND USE
Urban Economics: Chapter 9.

SECTION 9: SUBURBANIZATION
Urban Economics: Chapter 10.

SECTION 12: WHAT IS HOUSING DIFFERENT?

Urban Economics: Chapter 13.

SECTION 13: HOUSING POLICY

Urban Economics: Chapter 14.
Iruby, Ingrid, "Attracting the Housing Goal," (U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Division of Housing and Demographic Analysis, July 1986).

SECTION 14: DECISION-MAKING IN LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Urban Economics: Chapter 15.
Chapter I.

SECTION 15: LOCAL GOVERNMENT REVENUE

Urban Economics: Chapter 16.

Econ 125: Urban Economics U.C. Davis A. Sullivan 3

Econ 125: Urban Economics U.C. Davis A. Sullivan 4